“The Mile High City”

Denver is one of America’s fastest growing cities and one of the nation’s strongest metropolitan economies. Located near the Rocky Mountains, Denver sits on high rolling plains, 12 miles east of the “foothills”, a series of gentle mountains, with snowcapped peaks just beyond it rising to 14,000 feet. Mountains dominate the city making it so uniquely Denver. It is the 18th largest metro economy in the US and is home to many large corporations. In fact, in 2013 Forbes ranked Denver as number 6 on their list of the Best Places for Business and Careers. Denver has a population of over two million people with a growth rate outpacing the national rate every decade since the 1930’s. While the population and job opportunities continue to grow, Denver is also known to hold diversity in its people, with rich history and cultural heritage celebrated throughout the year. Being a dynamic city of diverse cultures, Denver offers a variety of activities, cultural celebrations and authentic restaurants all around the city. For more information visit www.denver.org
